Workers 'abused their position' as weighbridge operators

Men are sentenced over skip scam

TWO men took cash payments from skip-lorry drivers to underweigh their loads in a large-scale fraud. A court heard Anthony Horne and Sheldon Lewen

By Thom Airs

abused their positions as weighbridge operators at Grundon Waste's Banbury

Transfer Facility between January 2009 and February 2010.

Prosecutors said the scam could have cost Grundon more than £60,000, but the provable loss was £7,729.

The pair received about £10 a time from drivers from three skip companies — Banbury Mini Skips, ACH in Middleton Cheney and Village Skips in Daventry, Oxford Crown Court heard on Friday.

Horne, 26, admitted three counts of fraud and Lewen, 46, five counts.

Deirdre Philpott, prosecuting, said the duo would manually alter vehicle weights, not weigh them at all or incorrectly record the type of waste being deposited.

She said: "The recipients of these benefits were three skip-hire companies — Village Skips, ACH and Banbury Mini Skips. All of these being small operators who seem to have had an ongoing arrangement with the defendants."

In his police interview, Lewen, of Glebe Rise, Banbury, said he made about £5,000 from the scam at about £10 a load.

Terence Woods, defending Lewen, said: "This practice was in operation before he ever became involved in it and others were involved as well but he and Horne are the fall guys."

James Reilly, defending Horne, claimed site manager Peter Blackwell, who was jailed in February 2010 for sexually assaulting a 14-year-old girl, received all the money handed to his client.

Horne, of Valley Road, Banbury, "pleaded guilty on the basis he made no benefit and was put up to it by Mr Blackwell", Mr Reilly said.

Recorder Richard Hamlin, who rejected Horne's mitigation, said: "It seems to me highly unlikely Grundon could have lost less than £20,000."

Both men were given sentences of nine months in jail, suspended for two years, and ordered to carry out 250 hours' unpaid work. A spokesman for Banbury Mini Skips, which has taken over ACH, said: "I've got nothing to say."

When asked whether he denied his drivers were making cash payments to be underweighed, he added: "No idea what they were up to."

The couple running Village Skips said they had retired.

Cherwell's new figurehead Chairman sets his charity target

By Samantha McGregor

Timothy Hallchurch

THE new chairman of Cherwell District Council is Timothy Hallchurch, who represents the Otmoor ward. Mr Hallchurch, a former Lieutenant Colonel in the Royal Signals, saw service in countries including Aden, Northern Ireland, Cyprus, and Germany, and was responsible for all the long-range communications during the Falklands War. In 1970 he was awarded an MBE for humanitarian work in Jordan.

After he left the regular Army he joined the Territorial Army and commanded the Queen's Own Oxfordshire Hussars. Mr Hallchurch said: "I'm looking forward to my year as chairman and in particular raising money for my chosen charities. "These are the Army Benevolent Fund, The Soldiers' Charity, which supports soldiers, former soldiers, and their families in times of need, and the Spires Cleft Centre for children born with cleft palates. "The Spires Centre is based at the John Radcliffe Hospital and is pledged to raise £10,000 for research. "They will be holding a fundraising dinner at the Nut Tree at Murcott on September 10." Last year's chairman, George Parish, raised £3,000 which has been split between the special care baby unit, the children's ward and the maternity ward at the Horton Hospital, Banbury, and Bicester Community Hospital's League of Friends

Mixed reaction over plans to build new superstore

PLANS to build a large Sainsbury's superstore in Chipping Norton will be discussed later this week.

The retail giant hopes to create some 200 jobs at a new store, which would be built on a vacant lot in London Road.

Sainsbury's said the store would stop local shoppers travelling to Banbury, Witney and Stow-on-the-Wold to do their main food shop.

But the plans have received a mixed reaction in the town, with some saying it could "kill" the town centre.

Sainsbury's is to hold a public meeting to discuss the plans at the Town Hall tomorrow, between 2pm and 8pm, and on Saturday, between 10am and 4pm.

Andrew Sanderson, Sainsbury's regional development executive, said "We are excited at the prospect of investing in a new main food store in Chipping Norton. It would provide more choice locally for residents.

"The proposals would create a modern, high quality Sainsbury's store and help to keep shoppers in Chipping Norton."

He said a 2009 Sainsbury's survey showed that a "significant proportion" of local people went elsewhere to do their food shopping, proving there was a need.

But Lee Brain, manager of independent Market Street butcher Beadle's Butchers, said: "It's going to kill the town."

"It's on the outskirts and people will drive there and won't bother coming in to the town."

"I think we've got enough supermarkets in the town already."

An artist's impression of the new Sainsbury's store

Chipping Norton currently has a small Sainsbury's in Market Place – which would remain open if the new store is built – and a Co-op in High Street.

James Kitcher, owner of Cotswold Lettings, in Middle Row, said: "Most of the people are fairly positive about it. There isn't a great retail choice here, so many people are keen to see it succeed."

"Personally, I think it's good to see investment coming in. It would bring jobs and encourage more people to live here."

Chipping Norton mayor

Chris Butterworth said: "If it brings people in to the town, that will be good."

"But if it's up there, with a large car park, people will not necessarily move down into Chippy once they've done their shopping."

Sainsbury's said the new store would focus on food. The current design sees the store being built using "traditional stone" and renders, "typical of buildings in the Cotswolds".

It would contain energy-saving devices, including a system which will reuse rain water to flush toilets and a system to reuse cold air from chillers to cool other parts of the store.

The proposed five-acre site was previously used for furniture manufacturing. It has been vacant since 2004.

News in brief

A MAN has been spared jail after performing a sex act with a 13-year-old boy. At Oxford Crown Court Daniel James was given two years' supervision and ordered to sign the sex offenders' register for five years. The 20-year-old had earlier admitted engaging in sexual activity with a child in Banbury. The court heard it was a single incident in which the younger boy offered to perform the act on James, of Beech Drive, Brackley.

FIRE crews tackled a blaze at the Co-op store in Chatsworth Drive, Banbury. Two fire engines were called to the scene at 1.57am on Friday. No one was injured. The cause of the fire is being investigated by Thames Valley Police.

TWO men have admitted burglary-related offences. Neil Potter, 32, appeared at Oxford Crown Court on Tuesday and admitted burgling a house in Warkworth; a house in High Street, Middleton Cheney, and a property in The Maunds, Deddington. James Boxall, 40, admitted handling a stolen TV. Potter, of Britannia Road, Banbury, was remanded in custody, while Boxall, of Chepstow Gardens in the town, was bailed. Both will be sentenced on June 28.

Arson is suspected over £300,000 blaze

Elite Motorhomes director Paul Maynard

By Sam McGregor

MOTORHOMES, worth about £300,000, have been destroyed in a suspected arson attack on a family-run business.

Seven vehicles were completely burned out and a further five suffered heat damage after a large blaze at Elite Motorhomes, Thorpe Road, Middleton Cheney.

The fire started in the sales yard about 11.40pm on Tuesday night. Fire crews from Banbury, Hook Norton and Northamptonshire, managed to stop it spreading to other motorhomes and a nearby petrol station.

A police forensic team and fire service dogs sifted through the ruins last Wednesday and found a hole in the fence surrounding the sales yard.

Director Paul Maynard said a neighbour had spotted the fire. He said: "We do not really know what happened. The Fire Service found a hole in the fence and it looks fairly new, so they could have come through there. No-one is saying yet if it was sparked by vandals."

"It is horrible someone could do that. It is devastating, but what can you do? There is no point crying about it. It is awful, but we are insured."

About 30 different people called the fire service after spotting plumes of smoke coming from the site.

Station manager Mark Ames said the major concern was that the fire was spreading from caravan to caravan and could have reached the petrol station forecourt.

Mr Maynard said about 70 motorhomes were usually in the sales yard, but luckily 20 had been taken to the Stratford Motorhome Show – or the damage could have been far more severe.

He said: "They could have all been parked next to each other, and it could have quickly spread around the yard and the petrol station may have gone up."

The damage was restricted to one part of the sales yard, which meant the family-run business managed to open the next morning.

A police spokesman said: "The indication is this is a suspicious fire and we will investigate."

Appeal for Adderbury Lakes gets giant boost from waste organisation

Villagers' joy over £50,000

A CONSERVATION project in Adderbury has been given a £50,000 boost thanks to a waste firm.

Last November, villagers launched a £70,000 appeal to restore and de-silt the 18th century Adderbury Lakes, believed to have been first designed by the renowned gardener Capability Brown or one of his students.

Public donations and cash from Adderbury Parish Council totalled £8,000, but the project was given a massive £50,000 boost from the Viridor Credits scheme.

The lakes are in a poor state after years of accumulated silt. Now residents will make a final push to raise the last £12,000 to complete the project and are appealing for donations.

Project leader Mike Dolamore, also a parish councillor, said: "We are keen to restore the lakes in the most eco-friendly way we can.

"We are eco-dredging the lakes. We are not taking any of the silt off site — instead using it to create new wetland and meadow areas to help improve the wildlife.

"In addition, we are improving pathways with existing timber.

"The whole project is costing

Project leader Mike Dolamore, who is celebrating a £50,000 grant from the Viridor Credit Scheme for the restoration of Adderbury Lakes around £70,000 and we were thrilled to receive such a generous donation from Viridor Credits."

More than 3,000 people visit the lakes each year, including school children to fish or learn about the local wildlife.

The cash from Viridor Credits Environmental Company will pave the way for work to start to restore the lakes to their former glory.

Lisa Nelson is general manager of Viridor Credits, an independent, not-for-profit organisation which supports projects from the Landfill Communities Fund.

She said: "We're proud to be celebrating our tenth anniversary this year. The Adderbury Lakes, Wittenham Wetlands and St Nicholas Church are all perfect examples of how LCF monies can be used to help local community projects.

"We are always looking for new applications and look forward to hearing from groups and projects that may be eligible."

Specs at Home

Opticians

Free NHS eye tests in your own home

If you have mobility problems and live in Banbury or its surrounding villages, you can now have your eyes examined and be fitted with new spectacles without having to leave your house.

Specs at Home Opticians has launched a unique and comprehensive eye care service specifically for people in the local community who are housebound or unable to visit a high street optician unaided.

Those who are eligible for the service can arrange to have a FREE eye examination – conducted by a qualified optometrist using fully portable, state-of-the-art diagnostic equipment – in the comfort of their own home and at a time convenient to them. In addition, Specs at Home Opticians have experienced dispensing specialists who are able to visit customers to discuss their current prescriptions, fit them with new spectacles and provide a full aftercare service.

"We have launched Specs at Home Opticians because we believe there is a genuine need for a specialist community eye care service," said a spokesman for the company, which is based at Jeffersons Business Centre in Banbury.

"If you qualify for free NHS eye care, then you qualify for this service. By going out into the community, we can give people with mobility problems access to the services they would find at any optician on the high street."

As well as visiting the homes of individual patients, staff from Specs at Home Opticians are able to visit care homes, sheltered housing schemes and community centres. They have been trained to work with people with dementia, special needs and a range of medical conditions.

Specs at Home Opticians has official approval from the NHS to offer this service in Oxfordshire. The company is also registered with the General Optical Council.

"For a variety of reasons, people can have difficulty travelling to the nearest town to visit an optician," the Specs at Home Opticians spokesman added. "It may be, for example, that they are unable to use public transport on their own and have no relatives living nearby who can take them.

"The reality is that many people with mobility problems who are eligible for free NHS eye examinations don't get their eyes checked regularly, which can have obvious implications for their vision and general health.

"We are passionate about eye care and are dedicated to helping people improve and look after their eyesight – and at the same time help them to retain their independence. Ring our dedicated support team or send us an email, tell us your requirements, and we'll come and see you."

Report highlights empty care beds

A THIRD of the beds in some of Oxfordshire's largest care homes are lying empty, a patient watchdog report has claimed.

But suggestions it could hold the key to solving the county's hospital bed-blocking crisis have been denied by Oxfordshire County Council. The Oxfordshire Link patient group carried out a survey of 36 of the county's 142 care homes.

The report noted, over a four-month period, more than 100 beds were standing empty. It labelled the figure "gravely disconcerting".

The report added: "Some of both the medium-sized homes and the larger ones could have a third of their beds unoccupied."

"Occasionally the cause is given as building work, and a couple of homes are too new to be fully established. But more often it is stated, or implied, that the cost of the room may be an issue, particularly if county council funding is involved."

"Attention is drawn in one report to the coincidence of empty beds and reported bed-blocking at the Horton."

"What managers do make plain is that the rates of local authority reimbursement are a factor in the number of beds left empty."

A county council spokesman said: "Delayed transfers are not just down to people waiting for care home placements to become available. Currently, only a fraction of delays are because of this."

News in brief

A WOMAN has been found dead in a field. The body found in Great Tew is believed to be 51-year-old Ingrid Frithz, who had been missing from her home in Over Norton since Wednesday of last week. The death is being treated as unexplained, but police do not believe it to be suspicious. The woman's next of kin have been informed and the case was being passed to the Oxfordshire coroner.

FIRE crews tackled a garden bonfire in Hastings Road that had spread to fencing and a shed. Crews were called to the incident shortly before 11pm on Friday.

A TEENAGER has admitted dealing drugs in two Oxfordshire towns. Lemone English, 18, appeared at Oxford Crown Court on Friday and admitted possessing heroin and crack cocaine with intent to supply in Goldfinch Close, Bicester, on July 15. He also admitted possession of crack cocaine with intent to supply in Bretch Hill, Banbury, on March 31. English, from south London, was remanded in custody to be sentenced on July 1.

Man who preyed on the elderly, frail and vulnerable Prison term for the 'parasitic criminal'

By Thom Airs

A "PARASITIC criminal" defrauded an 83-year-old Parkinson's sufferer out of thousands of pounds and even stole cash from his own elderly relative.

Matthew Pratley "deliberately targeted elderly, frail and vulnerable people" as he took about £7,000 from a retired Oxford University academic and then burgled his 84-year-old great aunt.

The 38-year-old was jailed for three-and-a-half years at Oxford Crown Court on Friday after earlier admitting fraud, theft and burglary.

Pratley, of Chipping Norton, began work as an odd-job man at the home of Dr Francis Marriott in late 2009.

Recorder Richard Hamlin said that in December of that year he told Dr Marriott "a bald lie", claiming his girlfriend was ill and that he needed money to take her to hospital by taxi.

Dr Marriott, who was diagnosed with Parkinson's two years ago, handed over his debit card and PIN. Between that date and its eventual blockage by his bank on January 18, Pratley used the bank card to unlawfully withdraw what the judge determined to be up to £7,500.

Pratley, who was a drug addict at the time, told police that his victim would let him use the card to pay for legitimate maintenance work and for the purchase of food, but the defendant admitted to withdrawing much larger amounts than Dr Marriott sanctioned.

When the card was blocked, Pratley went round to the 83-year-old's house on January 23, 2010, and demanded a loan of £50 before he was scared off by neighbours.

Recorder Hamlin praised the "public-spirited" work of neighbours Ron and Hilda Cook in raising the alarm and calling police.

Having been arrested and bailed,

Matthew Pratley

Pratley then burgled £260 in cash from his great aunt Peg Clarke's house in Chipping Norton on February 17.

Pratley distracted the 84-year-old while his accomplice, Gemma Boswell, plucked the money from her handbag. Boswell was jailed for two years at an earlier hearing.

Joanne Sear, defending, said her client, who has 15 previous convictions including illegally using a bank card to withdraw £2,000, "had been a drug user for some 20 years and a heroin addict for 18 years".

She said he had just completed the first six months of a year-long rehabilitation course and had stopped using drugs.

Recorder Hamlin said: "These are mean offences, carried out against the frail and elderly. They cause great distress."

Outside court, PC Wayne Harvey said: "I'm delighted with the outcome. Eighteen months' hard work has put someone inside who is a mean-spirited, parasitic criminal, who deliberately targeted elderly, frail and vulnerable people."

Royal honour for volunteer groups

THEY help some of the most vulnerable groups in Oxfordshire – and rely on people giving up their time for free to do so.

Banbury's BYHP (Supporting Young People in Housing Need), together with The Prison Phoenix Trust, Windrush Valley Amateur Boxing Club and Helen and Douglas House, have all won the Queen's Award for Voluntary Service, the equivalent of the MBE for people working in their local community to help others.

The four organisations were among 130 nationwide recognised in this year's accolades, bringing the total number of Oxfordshire groups to receive the awards since their inception in 2002 to 19.

Lord Lieutenant of Oxfordshire Tim Stevenson said: "The four Oxfordshire winners of this prestigious and important award are extraordinarily varied in what they do, and the nature of the work their volunteers carry out.

"All are the same in their consistent dedication to what they do and the effectiveness with which they do it."

Banbury-based BYHP supports 16- to 25-year-olds who are either homeless or at risk of losing their homes. The group was commended for engaging with vulnerable young people and helping them address their problems.

Volunteers help run drop-ins and provide "night stops", providing emergency overnight accommodation for homeless young people.

Pam Linzey-Jones, from the charity, said: "This is just absolutely superb. We are overwhelmed by this amazing achievement.

"Without our volunteers we would not survive."

Agency GPs earn up to £1,200 a day

Shock at cost of stand-in doctors

LOCUM doctors are earning up to £1,200 a day working Bank Holiday shifts in Oxfordshire, it has been revealed.

The medics are being paid £100 an hour to cover at surgeries across the county when other doctors are off duty.

The NHS trust, which organises locum doctors, said it "did not have any involvement" in private agency pay agreements.

A spokesman for campaign group the 'Taxpayers' Alliance said the rate was too high.

Merco – NHS Oxford Health's "preferred provider" – is currently advertising for locums in the county.

The online advert says: "Locum GPs, in Oxfordshire – Earn up to £1,200 per day. Bank Holiday shifts now available!"

It adds that the salary is "up to £100 per hour".

Merco sales director Anita van Heerden confirmed locum GPs in the county are paid £100 an hour.

She said: "Our locum doctors are paid that rate on Bank Holidays, which applies to

By Dan Hearn and Amanda Williams

Oxfordshire and the other counties we operate in.

"It is standard practice. The higher rate of pay takes in the fact that these shifts are available on Bank Holidays."

NHS Oxford Health is commissioned to provide the service by NHS Oxfordshire.

Locums are brought in to complement local GPs because demand rises on Bank Holidays.

NHS Oxford Health washed its hands of involvement with pay negotiations.

Spokeswoman Alison Neary said: "Merco is a preferred provider of locum GPs for Oxfordshire.

"Oxford Health NHS Foundation Trust usually pay locum GPs approximately £80 per hour, in accordance with usual NHS rates of pay.

"On occasion, for short-term requirements which help to maintain our high quality patient care, we engage locum GPs from external agencies.

"In such cases, as with any agency arrangement, we are charged directly by the agency.

"In these circumstances, the actual rate paid is an agreement made between the individual doctor and the agency concerned.

"Oxford Health NHS FT does not have any involvement in these discussions or arrangements."

Emma Boon, campaigns director for the Taxpayers' Alliance, said: "Doctors work hard and deserve to be well remunerated for what they do, but it looks like agency staff are cashing in on certain NHS trusts being disorganised.

"With proper management of staff time and shifts, there should almost never be a need to resort to using very expensive locums on Bank Holidays.

"With huge pressures on healthcare costs, expenditure on agency staff must be kept under control."

Fire crews issue cooking alert

FIRE crews have reminded residents not to leave their cooking unattended – after being called to an oven fire in Banbury.

Oxfordshire Fire and Rescue Service were called at 8.45pm on Wednesday of last week to Edinburgh Way in the Bretch Hill area.

The occupants turned the oven off, closed the kitchen door, and called 999 from a mobile phone. No-one was injured during the incident and damage was limited to the oven.

But the fire crews issued safety advice, telling people never to leave cooking unattended and to keep the oven, hob and grills clean, as a build-up of grease and oils also present a fire risk.

Workforce trebles as firm moves to state-of-the-art facility

A COMPANY that specialises in metal detectors for industry has moved into new premises after major growth.

Fortress Technology Europe has more than trebled its workforce to 20 and uprooted from the Banbury Business Park to a state-of-the-art facility on Beaumont Road. And it has invested £2m in manufacturing high performance Phantom metal detectors from the site to service its customers across the UK and Europe in the food and pharmaceutical sectors, in addition to an existing facility in Canada. MD Sarah Ketchin said: "The new production facility is an important milestone for the ongoing development of Fortress Technology, which up to now has solely concentrated on manufacture at its HQ in Canada and from a production unit in Brazil. "We look forward to further expansion both in the domestic market and overseas."

Fortress Technology was set up in 1999 and its detectors are used to identify metal contamination in food and drug manufacturing. The Banbury plant will now manufacture up to 300 detectors a year ranging in price between £1,500 and £10,000.

Twin role for Cherwell District Council's incoming chief executive

New boss: No U-turn

THERE will be no immediate backtracking over the controversial policy of changes to the district's parking fees, a new council chief executive has said.

Cherwell District Council's Sue Smith said the increase of 10p on hourly rates, evening fees and charges for blue badge holders would, however, be reviewed in the autumn.

She said: "People will comment one way or another, and may vote with their feet and maybe go somewhere else."

Mrs Smith said: "There will be a review, but to review something you have to let it operate."

"We are not the first council in the country to charge blue badge holders and won't be the last."

"It's all about juggling finances and lots of tough decisions have to be made. The council grant has gone down, and next year it will drop further and inflation is going up.

By Sam McGregor

"The only way we can reduce the impact, to off-set the gap, is raise charges or raise council tax."

She acknowledged it had been "difficult" to make sure all were aware of the charges, a move which has seen some caught out with fines.

Mrs Smith, who started the £125,000-a-year post a fortnight ago, is the first to share the job with neighbouring South Northants District Council.

She was previously chief executive of Harborough District

Sue Smith, the new chief executive for Cherwell and South Northants district councils Council, Leicestershire, for six years.

A management shake-up is expected to be announced shortly in Cherwell and the Conservative-run council is having to save £2.7m this year after a cut in Government cash support.

This has seen changes, including charging OAPs for bulky waste collection, axing floral displays and cuts to grants for elderly people's groups. Sharing managers with Northants will save £1m.

Mrs Smith, 54, who has worked in local government for 31 years, after starting off as a recreation assistant, said: "It's a challenge."

"I treat it as if I've got three jobs at the moment; two councils – which are different and distinct and wish to remain so – and the extra job of bringing two management teams together to form one and looking for other efficiency opportunities that arise from that."

Mrs Smith ruled out a complete merger between the two councils, but could not rule out future job losses.

She said: "Politically, members at both councils have made it clear this is not about a merger. This is about getting more efficiency within staff."

New style of drug trials give hope to cancer victims

AN Oxfordshire hospital will soon have access to millions of pounds worth of new drugs for patients living in throughout county.

The Churchill Hospital, Oxford, has been named one of just 13 centres in a national clinical trial, set up by the charity Leukaemia and Lymphoma Research.

It is hoped the initiative, which was launched in response to poor survival rates for many types of leukaemia, lymphoma and myeloma, will signal new hope for local cancer patients.

Dr Paresh Vyas, consultant haematologist at the Oxford Radcliffe Hospitals NHS Trust, is also leukaemia and lymphoma research clinical trials co-ordinator for the area.

He said: "Being part of this clinical trials network will give blood cancer patients in Oxfordshire access to life-saving drugs and treatments."

"It offers hope to those patients who do not respond to current treatments."

The first trials are expected to be entered into the network by the end of the year.

The Oxford Cancer and Haematology Centre at the Churchill will be allocated a trials manager, who will identify patients who are not responding to their existing treatments.

They will also deal with the paperwork associated with setting up clinical trials.

According to figures released by the charity, blood cancers are the most common cause of cancer deaths in the under 35s.

Statistics show that over 12,000 people are dying of blood cancers each year, around 120 of whom are from Oxfordshire.

According to the charity, because there are so many different blood cancers, it has often been seen as uneconomical to develop drugs for the rarer types.

When new drugs do become available, clinical trials are often not set up because it is difficult to recruit enough patients at a single hospital to make them workable.

But because trials will be linked to other hospitals in the new national network, individual patients with rare blood cancers will now be able to be treated with new drugs in Oxford, rather than having to travel to get on a clinical trial suited to them.

Big Po bounces back in 3D

KUNG FU PANDA 2 (PG, 90mins)
Family/Animation/Action/Comedy. Featuring the voices of Jack Black, Dustin Hoffman, David Cross, Seth Rogen, Jackie Chan, Angelina Jolie, Lucy Liu, Gary Oldman, Jean-Claude Van Damme, Michelle Yeoh, James Wong. Director: Jennifer Yuh Nelson.

Prepare for the return of awesomeness in Jennifer Yuh Nelson's energetic martial arts comedy which kicks computer-animated butt and comes close to matching the rumbustious fun of the 2008 original.

Screenwriters Jonathan Aibel and Glenn Berger flashback to overweight panda Po's tortured past is the inspiration for this tale of identity and retribution, taking the story into far darker territory.

However, Jack Black's whirlwind vocal performance provides a generous smattering of belly laughs and the visuals are gorgeous and colourful, notably in the frenetic set pieces which punctuate the narrative.

The introduction of the 3D format almost warrants the additional ticket price, adding depth to the gorgeous rolling landscapes of ancient China replete with bamboo forests and ornate palaces.

Younger audiences will get just as much fun though from the traditional 2D version without the discomfort or distraction of the plastic spectacles.

Overweight panda Po (voiced by Black) is living his dream as an action bear, honing his skills under the watchful eye of mentor Shifu (Dustin Hoffman).

However, he is haunted by fragmented memories, which eventually reveal how his father came to be a goose called Mr Ping (James Wong).

It transpires that an evil peacock Lord Shen (Gary Oldman) is the cause of Po's emotional wounds.

Spurred on by a dire warning about pandas from an elderly soothsayer (Michelle Yeoh), Shen and his army of snarling wolves are on a collision course with Po, armed with a deadly weapon that could bring China to its knees.

Thankfully, Po can always rely on The Furious Five – Crane (David Cross), Mantis (Seth Rogen), Monkey (Jackie Chan), Tigress (Angelina Jolie) and Viper (Lucy Liu) – to avert disaster.

Kung Fu Panda 2 doesn't quite soar to the dizzy heights of DreamWorks' last animated feature, How To Train Your Dragon, but Yuh Nelson's film plays to its strengths.

The sequel relies heavily on Black to unleash his verbal fireworks and to continue sparking potential romance with Jolie's kung fu kitty.

Hoffman's comic timing is impeccable and Oldman delivers his lines in suitably Machiavellian tones.

The action sequences are bigger and more complex but still fall short of the intricacy of Pixar's most recent pictures.

Hopefully, DreamWorks Animation will have learned lessons about animated sequels from Shrek, which dazzled us in its original incarnation but became a creatively empty husk by yesteryear's Shrek Forever After.

Film focus on record label

MUSIC and film lovers are in for a treat with a special Oxfordshire screening of a film about one of the UK's most controversial independent record labels.

Ride's Mark Gardener and film director Danny O'Connor will join fans at the Ultimate Picture Palace, Jeune Street, Oxford, tomorrow, for the screening of Upside Down, the Creation Records story.

As well as featuring in the film and talking about his time with Creation Records, Mr Gardener, who is now 41, wrote the soundtrack tying the label's songs together.

He said: "I am a bit wary about nostalgia because too much nostalgia stops forward movement, but after Danny came and interviewed me, Loz Colbert from Ride, and Adam Franklin from Swervedriver, I thought he was the right guy to make the definitive account of those times."

Creation Records made stars of Mr Gardener and his fellow Ride members, along with the Jesus and Mary Chain, Oasis, Primal Scream, Supper Furry Animals and many others.

Mr Gardener said: "It was a fantastic time for me. I had a childhood ambition to play with my own band at the New Theatre, Oxford, but I never really thought I would. About three years later I achieved it, and from there it went on to Ride, back in their heyday outside the UPP or the Penultimate Picture Palace as it was known at the time world tours and the Albert Hall. It blew all my ambitions out of the water.

"I have great memories of that time."

He was approached by the Ultimate Picture Palace's new owner, Becky Hallsmith, to bring the film to the cinema and asked if he would consider doing a question and answer session.

He said: "For me it really fits the film and I think it is the right place to show it, an independent cinema showing a film about an independent label that did very well."

"When I was 18, Oxford was on a map for the university and for great writers, and rightly so, but now it is also on the map musically in a massive way."

The film will be screened at 9pm, followed by the Q and A, with tickets still available from www.wegotickets.com at £10

Ms Hallsmith said: "I thought it sounded like an interesting film that I should show and I happened to notice that Mark was around, so I asked him and it all fell into place."

"We are teaming up with Oxford, who are doing a barbecue at The Star at 6.30pm, and then we are hoping people will buy joint tickets and it will make a really nice night out."

"I am really looking forward to it. I think it will be a fun crowd."

FIA vice president's verdict: Much more fun to drive

Rally ace tries out the WRC Mini

ONE of the most influential men in motorsport, Mohammed Ben Sulayem, has test-driven the new Banbury-built Mini John Cooper Works WRC.

The FIA vice president for sport, and 14-time Middle East rally champion – who has won more international rallies than any other driver in history, recently experienced the new generation of World Rally Car for the first time at Prodrive's test track in Warwickshire.

The Dubai resident, who turns 50 in November, is also president of the Automobile and Touring Club of the United Arab Emirates and is the official FIA and FIM representative overseeing all motorsport events in the UAE.

By David Duffy

He said: "It's the first time I have had a chance to drive a new World Rally Car.

"Now, without the clever diffs and with the smaller, lower-boosted engines, you have to work the cars much harder, making them much more fun to drive and more spectacular for the fans."

The Mini John Cooper Works WRC made its competitive debut in May at Rally Italy in Sardinia, where Dani Sordo brought the leading car home in sixth place.

Sordo and Kris Meeke will return to the World Rally Championship from July 28 to 30, at the Mini WRC Team's next outing in Finland.

The team is only competing in six WRC events in 2011, in readiness for a full season in 2012.

The Mini John Cooper Works WRC has been developed by Prodrive based on the Mini Countryman.

It is equipped with a 1.6-litre, four-cylinder Di turbo engine, which is also available in the Mini production models.

The production engine was further developed by BMW Motorsport for use in various categories according to FIA Super 2000 regulations.

Auction action

SNAPPING up a property at auction can be a great way to net a bargain and puts the buyer in control, according to one agent.

Alex McEntyre, of Tayler & Fletcher, said: "With a private sale, a buyer won't know what the other bids are, whereas at auction the process is transparent as they can see who and what they are bidding against.

"The buyer knows they are paying market value and there is certainty, in that once the hammer drops it is a done deal.

"In these uncertain times, buying at auction can empower buyers."

Mr McEntyre said there is opportunity to pick up a property

By Gill Oliver Property Writer

for less, especially if it needs work.

But he warned: "A bidder needs to make sure all the necessary finance is in place, as ten per cent of the purchase price is paid on the day and completion usually takes place within 28 days."

Surveys and other inspections need to be done before sale day.

Mr McEntyre said: "Make sure you have answers to all the solicitor's questions and have reached the same point as if you were about to exchange contract in a private sale.

Tayler & Fletcher has a number of properties going under the hammer next week.

Yarrow in Churchill near Chipping Norton is a thatched, Grade-II listed period cottage, with garden and outbuilding, in need of complete refurbishment and modernisation.

It includes two bedrooms, a bathroom, sitting and dining rooms, kitchen and gardens and has a guide price of £180,000-£200,000.

The auction is at The Frogmill Hotel in Andoversford next Thursday, from 6pm. For more information, contact Tayler & Fletcher on 01608 644344 or visit taylerandfletcher.co.uk

Squeezing fun out of city travel

Just how small a car do you think you could squeeze into and still manage to juggle the demands of your everyday life? Most of us opt for a vehicle that can take everything we want to throw at it, be that people, luggage, camping or sports gear, and soak it up effortlessly.

But as the recession bites even harder, many motorists are looking at how they can cut back and opt for a smaller, more fuel-efficient car.

And you don't get much more cost-effective, or cosier, than Peugeot's cheapest model, the cuddly 107 city car.

Despite its tiny wheelbase, this city nipper is a proper car, with five doors, four seats and a burbling, three-cylinder 1.0-litre engine.

That peppy little power pot, which now meets Euro 5 emissions legislation, will deliver more than 60mpg, no road tax for the first year and the ability to sprint along at motorway speeds. And with wheels extended as far as they can go at each corner, the car has lively kart-like handling. Despite its compact size, the 107 also scores highly in safety tests, having been awarded four EuroNCAP stars in the adult protection test and three stars for child protection.

By David Duffy

But it's the use of internal space, which allows four people to be carried in comfort, that has proved a winner among buyers. Its success since its launch in 2005 has been nothing short of spectacular, with more than half a million now on the roads.

The test model, in Urban trim, comes with electric front windows, side airbags and remote central door locking, and the choice of either five-speed manual or 2-Tronic (an electronically-controlled manual that operates as an automatic) transmission.

Inside, the layout is simple, functional and well laid out.

Tweaks to the design of the rear parcel shelf has been improved to allow better access to the slimline boot.

If you want to manage a big weekly shop then you will need to flop down the split-folding rear seats. So on the one hand you can whizz around happily carrying four people, or you can carry two people and load up the rear like a small van. If you are feeling the pinch, squeezing into a 107 might just prove a cost-saving compromise.

Latest motoring news in brief

■ Bonhams third annual sale of collectors' motorcycles on June 18, held in conjunction with the VMCC's Banbury Run at Bonhams base in Shipton-on-Cherwell, features a large and eclectic selection of machines including a 1911 Triumph 3½hp (£11,000-13,000), a 1922 Triumph 550cc Model H (£4,500-5,000) and a 1928 AJS 498cc Model K9 De Luxe estimated to sell for £6,000-8,000. The popular Vincent marque is well represented in the auction with a c.1950 Vincent 998cc Black Shadow/Rapide (£30,000-35,000), a 1952 Vincent 499cc Comet (£9,000-12,000) and a 1949 Vincent-HRD 500cc Meteor (£8,000-12,000) just a few of the examples on offer.

■ Austrian economy driving specialist Gerhard Plattner has achieved 1,246 miles (2,006km) on a single 45-litre tank of fuel in a Skoda Fabia GreenLine. Starting in Reutte, Austria, Plattner drove to Bov, Denmark, and back. The result of his effort is a record-low 127.8mpg achieved by the Fabia GreenLine, although the model's official consumption figure is 83.1mpg (combined).

■ Toyota has told buyers they may have to wait until next April for deliveries of its new more spacious Prius petrol-electric hybrid models, because of a battery shortage and production delays due to the March earthquake and tsunami in Japan.
